LONDON LIKES "READY MONEY."

American Success Has Rousing Welcome From British Public. Special Cable Despatch to THE Sex.

LONDON, Aug. 13 .- "Ready Money," which met with great success in Chicago six months ago and is to be produced soon at the Playhouse in New York by William A. Brady, had an uproarous opening here to-night at the New Theatre. Allan Aynesworth, a London favorite, produced he play and played the leading rôle of CAST HELPS PIECE MUCH Jackson Ires, the skilful counterfeiter.

The house was jammed, there being a large American element in the audience, but the Londoners were overwhelmingly in the majority, showing that the idea of the play, which has been much exploited in the press, that money is magnetic and brings money, appeals to the British imagination.

Doubtless the critics will cavil much over "crude American financial morals," as indicated in the piece, but the audience heartily sympathized in the success of Stephen Baird as played by Kenneth Douglas and chortled with delight over the triumph of him and his criminal ally over the representatives of law and order as represented by a group of preposterous United States special agents.

The members of the cast were all good and put through the lively situations in a rattling style that almost made farce comedy of a plot that would seem to be melodramatic and plausible.

Mr. Ayneswerth made a speech before the curtain in which he eald he would send a message to the author, James Montgomery, who is now in the mid-At-antic, saying that he was not navigating among icebergs.

Thus simply did Julius Rosenwald, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., comment upon his celebration of his fiftieth birthday to-day by gifts to charity and educational institutions of sums aggregating $987,500.

The philanthropist at his summer home in Highland Park, received numerous messages of congratulation.

"My investments in charity have returned to me in satisfaction; that is almost all of them," Mr. Rosenwald said. "I never before have given so much at one time. There was an occasion when I gave $50,000. I have no regular amount to give each year, that is I don't count it. I have no system in making gifts.

"I do not believe in the practice of giving money away after death. I believe in seeing the money that is not necessary being used for the help and betterment of others. It is a great satisfaction.
